

Independence is a learned skill built through the accumulation of small achievements.

Expecting children to help or manage tasks is about much more than the tasks involved; it's about the self-respect that comes from being competent and useful.

- I can do things myself.
- I can help other people.
- I feel confident.
- I am independent.
- I feel good about myself.

